SWEET ECLECTICISM

The poetic universe of Paola Navone comes through in Sweet, the new collection for Gervasoni that is thoroughly characterised by her eclecticism and imagination. The collection includes, amongst many notable others, a sofa whose armrests envelop the seat as an embrace, a lamp looking like an upturned woven basket suspended from a cable wrapped in red fabric, and a mirror that is a rose or a spontaneous graphic gesture. The Sweet collection is available at Xtra Living.

CROSSING THE LINE

Art meets design as Cappellini revisits the magical work of Shiro Kuramata in a new cabinet series inspired by the Dutch De Stijl artist, Piet Mondrian. The Homage to Mondrian series offers two versions of cabinets, both created from lacquered wood and mounted on grey rubber castors. Homage to Mondrian is available at Proof Living.

IN SPIRIT

Autoban presented five new designs at the London Design Festival, one of which is the Holy Table, a solid wood number that celebrates the skills of the craftsman with a set of beautifully rendered curved legs and top. The table is reminiscent of an altar table to emphasise the idea of a sit-down dinner as a ceremonial process.

SPHERES OF COLOUR

The three men behind Lausanne- and Brussels-based studio Big Game have produced this little table lamp for Tamawa. An exercise that uses bakelite spheres as a mono material, the Tamawa collection, which this lamp is part of, is a design story that is inspired by the seminal Hang it all by Charles and Ray Eames lifted off in the 50s. The little table lamp is now available in 8 colours.
